

Plot Structure

Plot Structure

The turning point of the action in the story. It is the most exciting part of the story.

A series of incidents beginning with the conflict that create suspense, interest, & tension in a story.

The event(s) following the climax of the work that moves it toward its denouement or resolution.

The beginning of a story that gives important background information including the characters & setting.

The setting out or unraveling of a plot at the end of a story; the conclusion of the story.